CEO Eshel Pesti:

The first nine months of 2026 marked Citycon's strongest operational performance in more than a decade. We delivered exceptional growth across our portfolio, significantly outperforming the wider European retail real estate market. During January-September 2026, like-for-like net rental income growth was 6.8%[1] (of which indexation was 1.7%). Momentum accelerated further in the third quarter, with like-for-like NRI growing by an exceptional 9.2%[1] compared with last year.

Growth was supported by successful leasing activity, continued improvement in general mall leasing income, and disciplined cost management. The performance was particularly strong in Sweden and Denmark, where like-for-like NRI grew by 10.0%, while Norway delivered 6.9% growth and Finland & Estonia 4.9%[1].

Our operating environment continued to improve throughout the year. During the first nine months of the year, like-for-like tenant sales increased by 3.0% and footfall by 3.9%, reflecting healthy consumer demand and the attractiveness of our centres. Leasing activity remained robust, with 387 leases signed year-to-date and a strong +8.4% retail leasing spread, demonstrating our pricing power and the continued demand for high-quality retail space in our portfolio.

We continued to successfully diversify our income streams. General mall leasing income increased by almost 30% compared with the previous year, reflecting growing demand for temporary retail concepts, media, promotional activities and other commercial use of our common areas. In addition, we continued to invest in expanding our energy-related income streams, further enhancing the future earnings potential of our assets.

Although there was a negative impact from previously completed divestment net rental income increased to EUR 167.1 million, representing growth of 5.4% on a comparable FX basis. Direct operating profit increased by 6.7% to EUR 148.1 million, reflecting both income growth and our continued focus on cutting administrative expenses across the portfolio.

Investment property valuations improved marginally, demonstrating resilience despite an uncertain market environment marked by geopolitical concerns and elevated interest rates.

We remain active in the transaction market and continue to advance selected divestment processes aimed at strengthening our balance sheet and supporting efficient capital allocation.

Looking ahead, market conditions in our operating regions remain supportive. Combined with our strong leasing pipeline, ongoing asset management initiatives and disciplined capital allocation, we are well positioned to continue delivering profitable growth during the remainder of 2026 and into 2027.

I would like to thank our customers, tenants and Cityconners for their continued support and commitment. The excellent results achieved during the first nine months of 2026 demonstrate the strength of Citycon's portfolio and asset management and provide a strong foundation for the future.

The Nordic economies, like the rest of the global economy, are impacted by the uncertainty related mainly to politics, conflicts and structural forces challenging the economies. However, the Nordic countries share strong public economies and stable institutions, which help stabilise their economies. Now the economies are showing signs of recovery, supported by improving household purchasing power, stronger consumer confidence, moderating inflation, and increasing domestic demand. The tenant mix of Citycon's assets, consisting mainly of grocery and service-oriented tenants, is less reliant on consumer discretionary spending and the strategy has already demonstrated its strength and resilience throughout a variety of market conditions. In addition, 95% of the Company's leases are tied to indexation and the share of fixed interest loans is 84.5%.

9. Risks and uncertainties

The most significant near-term risks and uncertainties in Citycon's business operations are associated with the general development of the economy and consumer confidence in the Nordic countries and Estonia, and how this affects occupancy rates and rental levels of the shopping centres and, thereby, Citycon's financial results. Increased competition locally or from e-commerce might affect demand for retail premises, which could lead to lower rental levels or increased vacancy, especially outside capital city regions. Costs of development projects could increase due to rising construction costs or projects could be delayed due to unforeseeable challenges. Rising interest rates could also put pressure on investment yields, which could potentially impact fair values. The war in Ukraine continue to pose risks to economic health in Europe as well.

The main risks that can materially affect Citycon's business and financial results, along with the main risk management actions, are presented in detail on pages 33–34 in the Financial Statements 2025, in Note 3.5 A) as well as on Citycon's website in the Corporate Governance section.

2) EPRA NRV, NTA and NDV per share

The Best Practice Recommendations ('BPR') by The European Public Real Estate Association ('EPRA') include three measures of net asset value: EPRA Net Reinstatement Value (NRV), Net Tangible Assets (NTA), and Net Disposal Value (NDV).

Citycon considers EPRA NRV to be the most relevant measure for its business.

The EPRA NRV scenario, aims to represent the value required to rebuild the entity and assumes that no selling of assets takes place.

The EPRA NTA is focused on reflecting a company's tangible assets and assumes that entities buy and sell assets, thereby crystallising certain levels of unavoidable deferred tax liability.

EPRA NDV aims to represent the shareholders' value under an orderly sale of business, where deferred tax, financial instruments and certain other adjustments are calculated to the full extent of their liability, net of any resulting tax.

The tables below present calculation of the new EPRA net asset value measures NRV, NTA and NDV.

[1] When calculating the EPRA NDV in accordance with EPRA's recommendations, the shareholders' equity is adjusted using EPRA's guidelines so that bonds are valued based on secondary market prices. The difference between the secondary market price and the carrying value of the bonds was EUR 89.0 million (secondary market price lower) as of 30 Sep 2026. In the comparison period 30 Sep 2025, the difference was EUR 9.7 million (secondary market price higher).

[2] The real estate transfer tax adjustment in EPRA NRV calculation is based on the transfer tax cost for the buyer for share deal in Finland. Share deals are not subject to transfer tax in other group operating countries.

[3] In the EPRA NTA formula, 50% of the deferred tax liability related to investment property fair value is added back, according to EPRA guidelines.
